

This was an accidental sculpture formed from a partly used canister of polyurethane (PU) foam used on a DIY job. I left the canister on the bench and over days foam was slowly extruded into this weird shape - I moved the can occasionally to get the extrusion in a different direction. It has a glossy skin.

The top part. I can see a female figure held in the hand, King Kong like. Nice bum.